By BEN DE FOREST
CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP) — Bon-weary rescue teams, in a desperate battle against time but forced to move cautiously, probed deeper today into a coal mine where a tremendous explosion trapped 37 miners some 650 feet underground.

Plodding ahead in the third day of round-the-clock operations, the specially trained eight-man rescue units inched to within an estimated 4,300 feet of the spot where the blast erupted.

There has been no contact with the entombed men since the tragedy struck at 1:10 p.m. Thursday in the Frosty Run shaft of U.S. Steel's Robena No. 3 mine.

"We haven't given up hope," said Lewis Evans, Pennsylvania secretary of mines. Evans flew to the mine some 50 miles southwest of Pittsburgh within hours after the explosion.

Late Friday night a U.S. Steel official told anxious relatives of the trapped men that rescuers had progressed 1,000 feet in a three-hour period.

Leaders of the rescue operation parried questions about how long it might be before contact with the men would be made, saying this was dependent on unforeseeable conditions.

When the explosion rocked the mine, the men were in an area some two miles from the vertical entrance, which extends 525 feet from the surface.

It was pointed out that there was no way to determine where any of the trapped men are in relation to the working area, or face of the mine.

The rescue work has been slow and tedious, due mainly to the necessity of reconstructing the mine's ventilation system to force out methane gas and carbon monoxide, and to bring in vital fresh air.

Small fires and rock falls encountered in the long corridor also have handicapped rescue units.

Above ground, relatives of the men continued to keep a silent vigil.

Bishop John J. Wright of the Pittsburgh Roman Catholic diocese visited the disaster scene Friday night, offering consolation to the grieving families.

SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

SHOP FOR GIFTS IN OUR AD PAGES

Christmas Stamps Now Available

Availability at the Hope post office of ample supplies of the first Christmas postage stamp ever issued by the United States was announced today by Postmaster Robert Wilson. The 4c green, red and white stamp is intended especially for use on Christmas greeting cards and depicts the traditional holiday symbols — burning tapers and an evergreen wreath, adorned with a red bow. Lettering is in Old English. It was issued in response to a heavy public request over many years.

Christmas 1962

Issuance of the stamp ties in with the Post Office Department's "Shop and Mail Early" campaign and will also encourage the use of first class postal rate for greeting cards. This means that they will get preferred handling and can be forwarded, or will be returned to the sender if undeliverable. This is not the case where the cards are mailed as third-class under 3c stamps and the postmaster expressed his regret at the thousands of disappointments at Christmas time because of this fact.

To handle the ever growing Christmas business, Postmaster Wilson also announced that stamp and parcel post windows will remain open until 6 p.m. each day, including Saturdays from Monday, December 10 through Saturday, December 22. The entire post office personnel urges the public to mail early and often particularly Christmas parcels — and to separate letters and cards into "Local" and "Out of Town" bundles, no matter how small.

Co. Libraries Seeking More State Funds

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Library Commission asked the Legislative Council today to increase its annual funds for aid to county libraries from $155,507 to $250,000.

Mrs. Merlin Moore of Little Rock, commission chairman, said that under the commission's present budget books are wearing out faster than they can be replaced.

The extra $94,500, Mrs. Moore said, would enable the commission to give each of the 63 counties which now maintain county libraries about $1,000 each. The remainder of the money would be used to allow Clay and Madison counties to establish libraries.

Clay and Madison voted a library tax in the Nov. 6 general election and the commission plans to give Clay $21,253 and Madison $9,088 in establishment grants of $1 per capita.

The council is hearing budget requests from the various state agencies. It will make recommendations to the 1963 legislature. The budget hearings are expected to wind up an eight-week run in mid-December.

Calling libraries an "economic and well as cultural asset," Mrs. Moore said that local libraries in Arkansas now possess only 1,311, 152 books, or 4.5 of a book per person for a population of 1,785,272.

She said Arkansas, Prairie, Lonoke, Saline, Monroe, Benton, Polk, Miller, Cross, Crawford, Calhoun and St. Francis counties do not now have county libraries, although all except Calhoun and Prairie have small public libraries in one or more of their cities.

Calhoun, Miller, Saline and Cross tried but failed to pass a one mill library tax in the Nov. 6 election, she said.

The council turned a cold shoulder to Highway Director F.R. Oliver's plea for pay increases for him and his top echelon employees Thursday, and refused to approve the department's record $192 million budget request.

77 Convicts Paroled

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Pardon and Parole Board gave paroles to 77 convicts Wednesday and recommended executive clemency for 11 others.

W. P. Ball, parole director, said most will be released Saturday.

Slayer Claims 8th Woman in Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Police in suburban Winthrop are confronted today with what appears to be the eighth unsolved slaying of Greater Boston women in six months.

The latest victim is Margaret Cadigan, 17, runnerup in a 1962 Boston archdiocesan competition for queen of the Catholic Youth Organization.

She was found dead Friday night on the bedroom floor of the Winthrop home she shared with her family.

Detective Lt. Frank Perrone said of the Cadigan girl's death. "It looks like homicide."

The body of the pretty drum major and drill team captain was fully clothed, but her dress was up to her waist.

Her head was immersed in a pressure cooker half-filled with water. A pajama bottom was around her neck and there was a cut on the left side of her neck. A blood stained 12 inch knife was near the body.

Lt. Perrone said the girl could have died from any one of three means: strangulation, drowning or from the throat slash. A medical examiner was expected to give an official verdict of the death at a later time.

Like the other seven women victims, Miss Cadigan was alone at home at the time of her death.

Most of the earlier victims were linked in some way with hospitals. Two were nurses, one a physiotherapist and others had been patients shortly before their deaths.

Miss Cadigan was interested in nursing and had worked in a hospital as a nurse's aide.

Police fear a madman is on the loose, picking women as his victims and strangulation as his means of killing.

Police said Miss Cadigan was home alone for about 20 minutes Friday night. Death came in that period.

The most recent victim, until Miss Cadigan's death, was Sophie Clark, 19, of Englewood, N.J., who was studying medical and hospital technology in Boston.

Miss Clark, nude except for her brassiere, was found strangled with a stocking and petticoat, in her Boston Back Bay apartment Wednesday evening.

Miss Clark's apartment was less than a block from the scene of the first of the stranglings last June 14.

There were six strange slayings from June through August.

Mrs. Bright, 62, dies Friday

Mrs. Pearl Bright, aged 62, a resident of Hope for 23 years, died yesterday in a local hospital. She was a member of the Baptist Church.

Surviving are two sons, Dutchie and Arthur Bright of Longview, Texas, three daughters, Mrs. Cecil O'Steen of Hope, Mrs. William Dwyer of North Little Rock, Mrs. Don Weaver of Shreveport, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Simpson of Ft. Worth; eight sisters, Mrs. A. N. Hayes of Texarkana, Mrs. C. C. King of Temple, Tex., Mrs. E. P. Rogers of Monroe, La., Mrs. Vera Hand, Mrs. Hubert L. Clay, Mrs. W. F. Hand, Mrs. Bill Hale and Mrs. Johnnie Baxter, all of Ft. Worth.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Sunday at First Baptist Church by Dr. George Balentine. Burial by Herndon-Cornelius will be in Harmony Cemetery.

No Action on Raise for Broyles

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Legislative Council is not expected to take action on a proposed $2,000 pay raise for University of Arkansas football coach Frank Broyles until later this month.

The council withheld action on the proposal Thursday, along with all other budget items for the university, as it ended a series of budget hearings.

The university announced, however, that Broyles already has signed a new 5-year contract. His old contract had three years to run.

Dr. David Mullins, president of the university, asked for the pay increase for Broyles, who currently draws $21,000 a year.

The 36-year-old coach will take his Razorbacks to the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day for a battle with the University of Mississippi. It will be Broyles' fourth bowl team since he came to the university in 1959. His teams have won or shared the Southwest Conference title three times and took second place this year.

Men Back Off From a Sale, But to Women the Rule Is Crush or Be Crushed

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

A sale at a store doesn't separate the men from the boys, but, rather, the men from the women. For, can you ever remember a man who willfully went to a sale, or a woman who didn't anticipate going?

Well, all right, there are some exceptions, perhaps, but most generally a female will stand in line for hours to get a bargain, but a male will get blocks out of the way to avoid the same crowd.

Whatever joy a man finds in rough and tumble action on a football field, his feminine counterpart receives in the competition at a bargain counter.

Two thousand years ago the Roman philosopher and statesman, Cicero, set down "six mistakes of man." Let's examine those same mistakes in the light of a present-day sale, Grand Opening, End-of-the-Season, Pre-Inventory, or Closing Out.

The first mistake Cicero listed was "the delusion that individual advance is made by crushing others." Ordinarily, that would get quick approval by the vast majority. But at a sale the whole thing takes on a different perspective. "Crush or be crushed" becomes the rule.

"The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected" was the second mistake the philosopher cited. At a sale this is rarely true, because most participants don't have much time to think, much less worry, and everyone knows such purchases can never be changed or corrected, as every sale is final.

One look at a shop full of bargain hunters will tell you why the next bit of philosophy cannot be applied, "insisting that a thing is impossible because we cannot accomplish it." No testing ground is more fertile for American Ingenuity than that found beneath a woman's feet at a sale. Here is one place the Seabees could even find new ways to accomplish the impossible.

The fourth mistake-of-man which Cicero lists finds the most ridiculous application here. "Refusing to set aside trivial preferences" is proper in polite society, but in this case, who is either proper, polite, or social? And since when did the thingamajig you wanted become "trivial"?

"Neglecting development and refinement of the mind, and not acquiring the habit of reading and study" finds commendation of most in a list of mistakes. Usually, at a sale, though, the prospective buyers have already read the ads, studied their pocket-books, and tossed refinement to the winds.

Cicero's sixth listing was "attempting to compel other persons to believe and live as we do." No one tries to compel anyone at a sale to do anything but "take your" elbows out of my ribs" and "don't step on my corns." Otherwise, everyone is on common ground. And, girls, would you have it any other way?

Band to Be Guest of Methodists

The members of the Hope High School Band will be the guests of the First Methodist Church at the morning worship service Sunday, December 9 at 10:55 a.m.

The Band has done an outstanding job under the direction of Jon Barabotto, and has won many honors in competition. Mr. Barabotto has been honored by being elected President of the Band Directors of the State of Arkansas.

Two Children Perish in House

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP) — Fire raced through a four-room frame home at Newport Thursday, burning to death two Negro infants.

Killed were Vernon, 2, and Pam, 1, children of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Childress who were away at work when the fire began.

Four other children, ranging in age from 6 to 10, suffered minor burns. Two others were not at home at the time of the fire.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined, but Fire Chief Harry Benish said it apparently began in the kitchen of the home.

A second home and the Ruth Chapel Church were damaged by fire and water.

Deaths Around the Nation

WASHINGTON AP — Henry La Cossitt, 61, former editor of Collier's magazine and magazine writer and newspaperman, died Sunday of cancer. Since 1959 he had been a member of the government relations department of Gulf Oil Co. in Washington. He was born in Shreveport, La.

WATERBURY, Conn. AP — William W. Vosburgh Jr., 82, editorial director of the Waterbury Republican and the American since 1949, died Sunday. Vosburgh spent his entire journalistic career with the two newspapers.

Claim Under Advisement

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Claims Commission took under advisement Thursday a $8,512 claim by the city of Clarendon for damage to a tile sewer liner injured in the vicinity of subsurface highway repairs.

Highway crews last September injected mud under sections of concrete slabs on U.S. Highway 70 in Clarendon. The city said this process, known as "mudjacking," created pressures which crushed a sewer line.

The Highway Department said the pressure was not that strong, otherwise it would damage the concrete slab.

Because of the number of claims and the length of the hearings, the commission will return today to complete hearings and pass on the claims. Commission recommendations will be submitted to the General Assembly, which appropriates funds to pay claims against the state.

U.S. Senate Youth Program Planned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Douglas Smart of Magnolia and John Michael Boe of Little Rock are among 96 high school students already named to participate in the first U.S. Senate Youth Program next year.

Smart is a student at Magnolia High School. Boe attends Little Rock Hall High School.

A total of 102 students from all of the states and the District of Columbia will be in Washington Jan. 23 through Feb. 2 to meet their senators, attend Senate sessions and committee hearings and meet with government officials.

The program was authorized by a Senate resolution passed May 1961. A Senate Resolution passed May 1961 authorized the program.

State Superintendents of Education select the students to make the trip.

Someone Near JFK Is Talking

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a chatterbox—or maybe a bunch of chatterboxes—in or close to President Kennedy's highly secret National Security Council.

The Washington Star suggests Kennedy use the FBI to find out who did the talking to the Saturday Evening Post about how the council advised the President on handling the Cuban crisis last October.

This would mean an investigation of those closest to the President. Meanwhile there's no assurance there won't be more blabbing after another secret meeting on another crisis.

The Post this week not only published an account of who said what at the October meeting and what measures were discussed but mentioned what was in an inter-office memorandum distributed in the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency.

Yet this week when Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, was asked to comment on the story he said: "Proceedings of the NSC have been secret since its founding in 1947 and will continue to be."

The magazine story was written by a close friend of the President, Charles Bartlett, Washington correspondent of the Chattanooga Times, and Stewart Alsop, who reportedly has close connections in the administration.

By itself their account of what was said at the meeting would cause surprise. But even that was subordinated to the storm raised by the part they said was played by Adlai Stevenson, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations.

Their story said that even after a "consensus" of Kennedy's other advisers on the NSC said that a Cuban blockade should be the first step in a showdown with Russia, Stevenson "dissented" and even suggested making concessions to the Soviets by swapping Allied missile bases for Russia's Cuban missile bases.

This article was widely interpreted in Washington as a sign the Kennedy administration was putting the skids under Stevenson and wanted to bounce him.

What followed, as the storm got bigger, is curious in itself: Salinger read to reporters a White House statement saying "Stevenson strongly supported the decision taken by the President on the quarantine . . ." White House officials said the statement had been prepared with the knowledge and advice of the President.

The statement at first glance seemed to support what Stevenson by this time had already said: that he had favored a blockade. But on closer examination it looks ambiguous.

It didn't contradict the Post story by saying Stevenson agreed with the "consensus" of the council that there should be a blockade. Kennedy made his decision after hearing the council. The White House statement said only that Stevenson agreed with the President's decision.

Stevenson expanded Wednesday on the part he played in the council meeting.

On an NBC television show, Stevenson said the Bartlett-Alsop story was a "classic example of irresponsible journalism . . . untrue as to what I proposed and as to what I opposed."

He said he had "emphatically approved the blockade" and he denied advocating a swap of missile bases with Russia. Here in Washington there was a broad feeling Kennedy would have to give Stevenson personal and direct support if the ambassador were not to suffer great loss of prestige at the U. N.

Wednesday night the White House released a letter from Kennedy to Stevenson in which the President said he deeply regretted the "unfortunate stir" caused by the statements in the Bartlett-Alsop piece.

He added: "I think you know how greatly we have admired your performance at the United Nations in general and during the Security Council discussions and private negotiations connected with the Cuba crisis in particular."

He assured Stevenson he wanted him to continue at the United Nations. But at no time has Kennedy criticized the story co-authored by his friend, Bartlett. Nor has he said the story—contrary to what Stevenson says—was inaccurate in reporting the ambassador disagreed with the other council members on the blockade as a first step in dealing with the Soviet Union.

Piney Woods Scout Dinner December 11

The Piney Woods District of Boy Scouts of America will hold a banquet at Arkla Village, near Emmet, in the Chuckwagon Restaurant, at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, December 11, 1962.

The banquet is an annual affair where all persons working with boys during the past year in Hempstead, Howard, Lafayette and Nevada Counties are given recognition for their services to boys through the Boy Scout movement.

Ellis Stewart, electrical contractor of Prescott, is District Chairman. Lynn Murphy of Hope is District Scout Executive.

After the installation of officers for the coming year an address will be delivered by Attorney General Frank Holt who was recently elected to assume the office of Associate Justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court January 1. Mr. Holt will be introduced by F. C. Crow, Hope Attorney, who is holder of the Beaver Award and a worker in the boy scout movement for more than 33 years. Mr. Holt will incorporate in his address the highlights of his recent European tour.

Confidence in Adlai, JFK Says

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy hopes his public declaration of "fullest confidence" in Adlai Stevenson will put an end to speculation that the U.N. ambassador may be on his way out.

A "Dear Adlai" letter from Kennedy to Stevenson was made public by the White House Wednesday night. Officials said the decision to give it out was prompted by the President's determination to try to remove any uncertainty about Stevenson's future.

The speculation stemmed from publication of a Saturday Evening Post article written by two Washington reporters, Stewart Alsop and Charles Bartlett, a close friend of the President.

The article quoted anonymous officials as saying that at the outset of the Cuban crisis Stevenson dissented from Kennedy's decision to throw a naval blockade around Cuba and advocated a softer approach.

Denials by the White House and by Stevenson, coupled with statements that Stevenson had in fact supported the blockade decision, failed to quiet the speculation. Officials decided the tempest could be stilled only by personal action by Kennedy.

The letter, read to newsmen by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, made two major points:

1. That Kennedy has the "fullest confidence" in Stevenson and has valued his advice "very highly."

2. That Stevenson will continue as ambassador at the United Nations.

The letter also showed that Kennedy is satisfied the Soviet Union's withdrawing of missiles and bombers from Cuba has effectively ended the nuclear threat to U.S. security. The President said without qualification "We have eliminated the nuclear menace from Cuba."

He cited that point in his letter to Stevenson as evidence of "the prudence of our policy and its execution, in which you played such an active part."

The White House said Kennedy's letter reached Stevenson at the United Nations about noon Wednesday. But, three were indications Stevenson had been satisfied after a Monday conference with Kennedy that he had the President's backing in spite of the implication in the article that someone in the administration might be trying to put an end to his U. N. career.

Associates said Tuesday that if Stevenson had not been satisfied about the President's position he would have resigned already.

Kennedy wrote Stevenson that "this is just a note to tell you again how deeply I regret the unfortunate stir which has arisen over the statements contained in the Saturday Evening Post article."

Bank Stabilization

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Bids on bank stabilization work on both sides of the Arkansas River in Johnson and Logan Counties will be opened Jan. 9 by Army Engineers in Little Rock. Bids are limited to small businesses. The project consists of 211,000 tons of quarry-run stone with fines, 10,000 cubic yards of excavation and 7,600 yards of stonefill dikes.

JFK Appealing for Moonbound Rocket Funds

By FRANK CORMIER

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — President Kennedy, well past the halfway mark on a cross-country tour, is getting a budget-season appeal for more funds to build a moonbound nuclear rocket engine.

Kennedy was to get the second half of a double exposure to Project Rover—the nuclear engine program—at the atomic test site at Jackass Flats, Nev., today. First, however, he arranged to attend a Catholic feast day Mass at an Air Force chapel here before flying to Nevada.

The chief executive was given the first half of the Rover story—and a thinly disguised plea for financial support—at Los Alamos, N.M., Friday. Scientists are designing the engine at Los Alamos and testing it at Jackass Flats.

Rover advocates hope their engine, still in the dream stage, will be chosen to lift the first American to the moon—an event now planned for sometime in the 1970s. Perhaps significantly, the White House listed as the prime reason for Kennedy's trip a desire to hear about Rover firsthand.

The journey also coincided with the time when the President is putting finishing touches on a new federal budget going to Congress next month. Also it came as some officials were urging a slowdown in the moon program to save funds.

Nuclear rocket engines were not the only presidential concern, however. Kennedy spent more than three hours Friday at Strategic Air Command headquarters outside Omaha, Neb., being briefed on SAC's emergency plans.

He also got a personal look at the Albuquerque operations of the Sandia Corp., the nonprofit business that has a monopoly on designing all the bombs, warheads and other housings for nuclear war explosives.

The trip had two bonus factors as well.

First, Kennedy was able to look forward to 36 hours of relaxation—at today's final stop—at the home of crooner Bing Crosby near Palm Springs, Calif

Some Facts of Life in Arkansas

By J. C. TILLMAN

Even if you've never heard of a tribolite, you can now see one, thanks to W. C. Riddle of Memphis.

Riddle, president of the Mid-South Earth Science Club, has loaned an outstanding collection of tribolites to the Arkansas State College Museum.

The collection contains 57 different species of tribolites from throughout the United States and foreign countries.

What are tribolites?
Oh—they're members of the crustacean family that lives on earth 100 to 400 million years ago.

Bob Evans got off a pun on the state's duck hunting situation this year when he was master of ceremonies for the Arkansas Duck Calling Contest last week.

"They've got a new fish this year called duck and spelled C-O-O-T," he quipped. He also reminded his audience that this is the first time in his memory that Arkansas could legally bag more deer than duck.

Cooked coel, he advised—if prepared with know-how—taste's something like White River catfish.

News gets around—Mrs. Harold Brain, formerly of Stuttgart and now of Butler, Pa., picked up a paper the other day and was startled to find an item in it about no one running for public office in Gillette, Ark.

Dr. Frank W. Wilson, a native of Craighead County isn't too sure he wants any more Cherokee Indians as patients.

Red Guards Not Very Humorous

By RICHARD O'REGAN

HELMSTEDT, Germany (AP)—At the frontier to East Germany, ANG border guard station a roll of barbed wire, his automatic rifle resting on his knees.

A rusty West German truck driver pulled up on his way to Berlin, threw open his window and cracked: "Hey, sonny, doesn't it tickle?"

The East German policeman reddened. He stood up violently and thrust his rifle toward the West German driver.

"Ach," said the truck driver without lowering his voice. "We've got to teach them first what humor is. They haven't got any."

The long-haul truck drivers between West Germany and West Berlin must stop at Communist controls to have their freight checked.

It is often a long process. Every day, hundreds of truckers have to undergo tiresome Communist examination of their papers and cargo. They often amuse themselves at the expense of the Communist police.

Another truck from West Germany roared up and the driver clambered out of his cab.

"Man look at that baby," he said as a girl in a gray Communist uniform approached. And then loudly: "Na ja, sister—pretty girls don't belong on customs ramps."

The girl ignored him, but a few minutes later she fled in anger. The truck driver's partner had awakened from his sleep, stepped to the ground and pinched her.

An irate Communist officer came out of the door through which the girl had disappeared. He wagged his finger in warning at the truckers.

Some yards away, another group of West German truckers loitered around vehicles being inspected by the East German guards.

A young East German in glasses was sounding off: "In a capitalist country like West Germany, the workers always suffer. Our workers are luckier than you."

He glared at one truck bringing chocolate to West Berlin.

"We don't need Western influence, propaganda and chocolate from you," he said.

Snapped one of the West German drivers: "Be quiet, we don't want to listen to you. We have to stand here all the time having our papers checked and we don't have to listen to your political nonsense too."

A third truck driver joined the attack on the young East German: "Your slogans about all you happy men—keep them for yourself. You tell me what you really think, and I'll see if I can't smuggle you back with us to the West."

The agitator stared at them. He looked startled and flushed as if his secret thoughts had been tapped and brought out to the open.

"But comrades..." he began.

The truckers laughed in his face, went to their cabs and turned on their motors.

State Gops to Washington Meet

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Five members of the Arkansas Republican Party left today for Washington for a weekend conference with national GOP leaders.

They are Winthrop Rockefeller, national committeeman; Mrs. W. L. Jameson Jr. of Magnolia, national committeewoman; William Spicer of Fort Smith, state chairman and Everett Hamm Jr. and Marion Burton of Little Rock, staff members.

The meeting was called by Rep. William E. Miller of New York, chairman of the GOP national committee, for an overall assessment of party performances in the Nov. 6 election. The conference also expected to make plans for the future, stressing precinct organization.

Meeting of county chairmen has been called for the following weekend by Spicer. The Arkansas GOP has already announced its prime objective will be renewed local organization.

While he was working, loyal Cherokees had come from all parts of the nation to stand vigil. Wilson said he wasn't sure they were there purely for moral support.

A would-be Batesville deer hunter got the "big letdown" before he ever reached the woods.

He set the alarm for 3:45 a.m. on the Monday he was to go hunting.

That is, he thought he did. When it went off, he climbed out of bed, dressed the started to leave the house with his gear.

Then he discovered he set the alarm three hours early.

Attention to good grooming will go a long way towards bolstering your morale during pregnancy. This expectant mother (left) takes frequent showers to keep her skin clean and clear. She knows that white next to her face will accent her new radiant beauty. She chooses washable white fabrics (center) that need no ironing, and launders them after every wearing. To flatter her figure, she wears a slim dark skirt and a top with an uncluttered neckline (right).

Confession Is Good For The Soul

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: In school I dated very few boys. One I remember more than the others. He always seemed around when I needed help even about little things, like having to lug home groceries for Mom when I had school books to carry to. I'd stand there worrying about how to manage it when in would come this boy with his cheerful grin and say, "Hello, can I give you a hand?"

Finally, we started going steady then on the day I graduated, he asked me to marry him. I wanted time to think. Before I could give him an answer he had to go into the service. Now he's in the Air Force stationed in Germany for two years.

His sudden departure gave me a jolt. I told him that I loved him and would wait until he returned. He's wonderful to me even from a distance; writes long letters three times a week; sends beautiful presents and treats me like a china doll.

But I still remember that when we went steady I did long to date other boys; yet there are times when I feel a tremendous surge of love for him, as when he joined the Air Force. At other times I am completely passive. When they are really in love, do you ever doubt?

He is very sensitive. I can't bring myself to write that "Dear John" note yet hesitate to lead him on when I'm not sure. I went out with somebody else when we first went steady and I find myself doing it often now. In doing so, I feel I'm hurting him, the other men I date and myself.

Also, I find I hard to love him, when I know I don't deserve him. He's such a truly fine human being—and me? Well, I'm just a mixed up, confused cheat. What's your opinion?—Miserable

Dear Miserable: Get rid of that guilt complex. It's only human to go out with other boys while your Air Force man is away. You're not married yet. He probably does the same.

Use the other boys as yardsticks of comparison. Love isn't something that is created in a day. A romance which blossoms overnight is like a hot house plant. It withers and dies quickly.

True love is more like the sturdy oak which grows slowly and is strong enough to weather all storms. From your description, your Air Force sweetheart is a man of rare calibre, one whose love would be as strong as the oak tree. Don't let that silly guilt complex spoil your chances for happiness with him. The fact that you find him a fine character indicates your own worth.

Dear Helen: You published a letter not long since from a 13-year-old girl who had eloped to Connecticut and been secretly married there. What scum of the earth would marry a 13-year-old girl? Who has the authority to do such a thing in our civilization? If the law of that state permits this, where are the personal ideals of right and wrong of the minister or justice of the peace who performed the ceremony?

It's entirely too easy to get married.—Fred G. Blackburn, Provo, Utah.

Dear Mr. Blackburn: The girl probably lied about her age since legal marriageable age in Connecticut is 16 for both female and male. However, the court has authority in an emergency (usually if the girl is pregnant) to marry those below the age of consent.

That age as you know, varies with the country. In India, South America and other tropical countries, child brides are common. In New Hampshire, oddly enough, a girl may marry at 13, provide her parents and the court approve. In Alabama, Georgia, New York, South Carolina, Texas, the Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands and your own State of Utah, the legal age is 14.

Since you feel so keenly on the subject, why not take it up with your state legislature?

Dear Helen: At our high school different organizations can raise money by selling "pep" ribbons the week before football or basketball games. Recently it was the band's turn to sell ribbons. Toward the end of the week I had sold over 30 ribbons and was trying for 40.

On Friday a boy I tried to sell promised to buy one from another band member (a girl friend of mine) when she got more from the band half. I told him the band was sold out and she had said it was okay to buy one from me, which he did.

When my girl friend found out about this she stopped speaking. What can I do to set things straight?—In-the-Dog-House

Dear In: So long as you know in your heart that you acted in a straightforward and sincere way, relax. Be yourself and let the girl look you up. She's the one to apologize. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my heart, "Our Fine Teenagers."

Send your problems to Helen Worden Erskine care of this newspaper. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Dorothy Dix is a registered trademark. A Bell Syndicate Feature)

MAN ON THE SKEWBALD MARE

By Nelson C. Nye

SKEWBALD MARE
By NELSON C. NYE
THE STORY: Rafe has been told he is free to leave the Pike place but he fears it is a trap—that he will be shot as a fugitive if he tries to get away.

XII
Rafe was most high scared to look himself. He peered at the flesh serving Pike for a face but might's well have quartered a rock, he thought, for all the good he got out of it. Then he saw Pike's eyes and very near quit breathing.

When Rafe got hold of his courage, he said pretty boldly: "You got to take off both of 'em?" "Eh? No... no, nothing like that," Pike said, covering up with a heartiness obviously as spurious as a three-dollar bill. "Turned out a deal beater than we'd any right to hope for. Try moving these fingers... here, let me massage them."

It took all Rafe's breath to keep from yelling. When reluctantly he slatted one eye to take a peek Doc, settled back, had let go and was smiling. "You're going to have to get used to it, Bender. A lot of tissue was crushed. It's impaired the circulation. You're going to have to exercise."

"How'd you know my name was Bender?"

"Isn't that what you told Bun-

Father of Missile Proud of Project

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Karel J. Bossart, Belgium-born aeronautical engineer, watched proudly from atop a missile hangar as a great silvery projectile labored from its launching pad.

The 135-ton monster slowly picked up speed as its tons of fuel were consumed by three thirsty engines. Gradually it pitched over on a southeast heading and sped from sight.

Bossart, known as the "father" of the Atlas intercontinental range missile, received word minutes later that this Atlas was well on its way to a target 5,000 miles down the Atlantic tracing range.

The launching Wednesday was the last test for America's premier ICBM, closing out a flight program which began 5½ years ago on the same launching pad.

Bossart recalled that Atlas originally was conceived as a much larger vehicle, with five main engines and takeoff thrust of nearly 700,000 pounds, compared with 389,000 pounds for the most powerful breed of present-day Atlas.

In 1946, the Air Force awarded General Dynamics-Astronautics a contract to develop an intercontinental range missile capable of hurling a nuclear warhead 5,000 miles—4,800 miles farther than any U.S. missile had flown. The company named Bossart project engineer.

Because nuclear weapons were ponderous packages in those days, the five-engine Atlas was conceived. But in 1947, the Defense Department swung an economic ax and eliminated Atlas.

Russia, meanwhile, proceeded full steam with development of an ICBM to deliver the cumbersome payloads. As a result, the Soviets perfected a long-range rocket before the United States, and when man determined he could use such power to explore space, Russia had the boosters to put up seven-ton satellites and five-ton manned spacecraft.

Bossart persuaded General Dynamics to use its own limited funds to continue the Atlas program. Atlas was redesigned to the three-engine configuration and the first test vehicle, with only two engines and a dummy nose cone, thundered away from Cape Canaveral June 11, 1957. It went out of control and was destroyed by the range safety officer 51 seconds after blastoff.

Twenty-seven months and 29 launchings later, the missile became operational. Today 12 squadrons totaling 108 missiles are war-ready. Atlases have been used more than 30 times on successful American space launchings, including the orbital flights of astronauts John H. Glenn, Malcolm Scott Carpenter and Walter M. Schirra. More than 100 space firings lie ahead for this rocket which is serving until more powerful boosters are available.

"Come along," she bade with her own glance averted, Rafe followed her out into a room that faced the street. He trailed her over to the window. Being careful not to disturb the curtains she said, "Take a look at that."

Straight off Rafe didn't see a thing but the scenery. Then the wink of metal drew his narrowing stare to a scrub oak thicket a couple of hundred feet away. Barely discernible through the foliage was the shape of a squatting man.

Five Admit to Cage Fixing

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Five New Yorkers who admitted making contacts and running money to fix basketball games faced sentencing here today on multiple bribery charges.

Appearing before Judge Heman Clark were Aaron Wagman, Joseph Green, Paul Walker, Michael Siegel and Louis Barshak.

All entered pleas and turned state's evidence in the bribery trial of Dave Goldberg, 46, and Dave Lakometros, 39, two St. Louis men convicted and sentenced Wednesday to five years in prison.

GOP Head Pledges All Out Drive

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman William E. Miller pledged today an all-out GOP campaign in 1964 for Southern electoral votes and congressional seats.

Miller made clear in a report prepared for the opening session of the two-day Republican National Committee meeting that he has no intention of soft-pedaling party efforts in Dixie.

Some Republicans have complained that the segregationist link of several GOP candidates in the South could threaten the Republican position in the big industrial states two years from now.

In reply, Miller said: "Do not be misled or dismayed by those who are trying to give Northern Republicans a guilt complex over our Southern inroads. Our successes in the South need no apology. They are the product of hard and intelligent effort on the part of people dedicated to the Republican principles of freedom and sound government."

Emphasizing a determination to broaden the GOP's "Operation Dixie," Miller said that so far as he is concerned there will be no uncontested congressional races in the South two years from now. Democrats had no GOP opposition in 57 House races in the South in 1962.

He added that, as he views the situation, few of the South's 328 electoral votes can be taken for granted by the Democrats much longer.

Miller seems likely to continue in his job despite some proposals that a full-time, paid chairman be selected. As a member of Congress of New York, Miller divides his time between the House and the committee and receives no pay for heading the GOP group.

Ohio State Chairman Ray C. Bliss, mentioned as a possible national chairman, told a reporter he isn't interested in the job.

Mayor T. H. Hickey said he has asked members of the Conway County quorum court and other interested citizens to attend a meeting, which grew out of a meeting Thursday night in Russellville.

Hickey said members of the Pope County Planning Commission are expected to be on hand tonight to explain the workings of their organization and how it can be extended.

The meeting Thursday was held in an effort to form an organization which would lead to the planning and zoning of all land along the river and Interstate Highway 40.

Some 40 representatives of the five counties of Pope, Yell, Conway, Logan, Franklin and Johnson indicated Thursday they would be in favor of such a plan but the permission of the quorum courts is needed in each county.

Most of the quorum courts throughout the counties meet Monday and representatives of the group are expected to present their plan at that time.

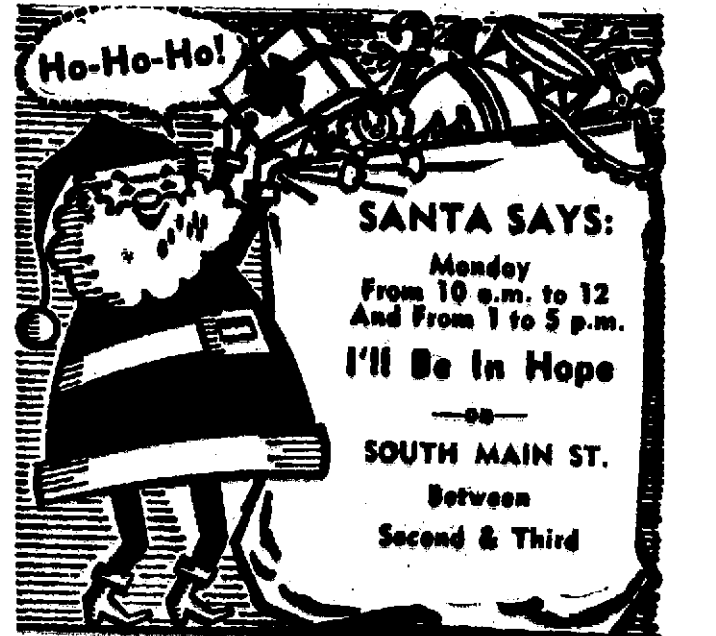

The courts will appoint representatives to attend the next meeting, scheduled Jan. 22 at Russellville to approve an expenditure of $1,500 annually for the next three years to finance the mapping and surveys of the area.

Estimated cost of the program for three years is about $81,000. About two-thirds of this would be paid through federal aid.

When to Fish or Hunt Solunar Tables

By John Alden Knight
The schedule of Solunar period as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The major periods are shown in bold face type. These begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

championship by scoring about 20 more points. It lost to Texas by six, to Baylor by four, to A&M by five, to Arkansas by two. It beat Rice and Texas Tech to make an early threat for the title.

However, the fans just won't come out just to see a team try; they want to watch a team win.

There is no question that SMU will never get out of its predicament until it has a winning team. However, here's not much chance of football being discontinued on the Hilltop even if it continues to lose. A great university like that must have a football team. It is necessary to school life and it is one of the best publicity agents of all. A school without football has double trouble recruiting students.

And they're eyeing the future with optimism at SMU. A fine nucleus from this year's surprising, by good team and one of SMU's best freshman teams is coming up. Boys like Mac White, Richard Stark, Jim Taylor and tackle Doug January will give the varsity a big boost.

SMU had a much better team than anybody had hoped for. It could have won the conference over $500,000 in athletics for the year, including basketball. The other sports bring in nothing.

This isn't enough to pay all the expenses of the athletic department since the average in the Southwest Conference appears to be around $600,000 a year. But it is a lot closer than anybody thought.

Southern Methodist had income of over $500,000 in athletics for the year, including basketball. The other sports bring in nothing.

Is The Lord Our God

THE CHURCH'S ONE FOUNDATION

THE CHURCH'S ONE FOUNDATION IS JE-SUS CHRIST HER LORD

...She came from God the Father to accomplish good for all; to persuade people to a better way of life. Her steeple is high, her influence reaches far. Men know she holds comfort for believers and direction for those lost in sin.

She is where a lot of people go as a last resort. Oh, that all men might first, come by way of His church for renewed hope, divine courage and greater strength.

Over nineteen hundred years ago, God opened her doors to all men regardless of race, color or creed. He raised the cross, on which Jesus died, atop her steeple with a prayer that men might never commit blasphemy against His name. — Then, "come let us go into the house of the Lord." Here, it is always time to worship the God I serve...for I am His church.
